

Jacob Reynolds
Hist 3151W
12/15/15

Final Project

My paper for the semester was based on what I called Britain's Religious Golden Age. After the Norman Conquest Britain saw substantial changes both demographically, and monetarily. These changes had various impacts on religion in Britain, and through my analysis I argued that these changes led to a very prosperous and successful religion in Britain.

For my final project I decided to create a travel website for Britain, set in the time of this Golden Age. I lists various reasons of why Britain is currently so amazing, some of the top tweets of the day, and more. The time frame of the website (as told by the tweets) is Sep 8th 1087. This time frame is a little compressed from my paper, since they hadn't made thousands of monasteries at this point, but I took a little freedom with it since they had already made great advancements at the time.

A large amount of time on this website was spent on making it available on all platforms so it is viewable on mobile phones and computers of all sizes. The rest of the time for this website was spent making a user experience that attracted people to Britain, while presenting them with the facts presented in my paper. I hope you enjoy the website, and please give me any feedback you feel necessary.

Please view the website at the below url:

<http://ilovehist3151w.xyz>

If you are interested in web development you can view the source code for this website at the below url:

<https://github.com/jacobreynolds/BritishHistory>

And the development history of the website can be viewed at the below url:

<https://github.com/JacobReynolds/BritishHistory/commits/gh-pages>